

RELEASE AND WAIVER
RIGHT TO USE NAME, PHOTOGRAPH AND LIKENESS

The following set of guidelines should be reviewed by personnel responsible for obtaining signed releases:

1. A release must be used for all advertisements/publications/public relations photographs whenever a person's name is used, the person is recognizable, or the person is well known.
2. A release is not needed if a person is part of a crowd scene or is shown in the fleeting background. There are no specific guidelines on what constitutes a crowd. If you have a doubt, please contact Law and Corporate Affairs before using the photograph.
3. Each release should be witnessed.
4. Obtain the full name, full address, and the phone number of the subject person. If possible, attach the person's business card to the release.
5. The person's address and phone number should be verified
6. It is important to verify the age of the person signing the release. What constitutes minor status varies from state to state. Anyone under the age of 18 should be considered a minor and a parent or guardian must also sign the release.
7. You might consider providing the subject person some type of consideration (i.e. Starbucks Card or copy of photograph).
